Course Description

The course introduces students to problematic of the contemporary brand as a social, cultural and commercial practice. They learn contemporary brand theory and its applications in a contemporary environment. ‘Brands” are becoming for our century what mass produced goods was for the twentieth century. Students will examine the whole process of belief and social life.

In the second part of the course, students complete a communications audit of a brand examining all aspects of its communicative strategies from package design to employee behaviour as well as clothing, web design, social media, architecture, shop design. The course will also examine how branding now has extended beyond consumer brands to such areas as NGOs and politics (political parties as brands and politicians as brands) and become one of the principal forms of contemporary social organisation.

Course Learning Outcomes

Understand and be able to use qualitative communications research methodologies
Be aware of key issues in debates about globalization and their relationship to forms of global media and culture
Develop critical perspectives on major concepts and theories in media studies, communications and cultural studies
Develop practical competence in a field of contemporary communications
Students will come to understand and develop critical perspectives on branding and the global circulation of meaning
They will also understand the relationship of brands to media culture and broadcast and social media
In addition, they will develop practical skills in conducting semiotic analyses and brand audits

Attendance Policy

ATTENDANCE:
Active participation of students is central to success in this class. Students are required to log in written responses to the reading and come to class with position papers on those readings. These position papers should be two paragraphs. Students will be chosen at random to discuss their response on their position paper in every class. Send Position Paper by 7pm before every class to brandsbelief@gmail.com Please also print them out and bring them to class.

ATTENDANCE POLICY:
Students studying at The American University of Paris are expected to attend ALL scheduled classes, and in case of absence, should contact their professors to explain the situation. It is the student’s responsibility to be aware of any specific attendance policy that a faculty member might have set in the course syllabus. Academic Affairs will excuse an absence for students’ participation in study trips related to their courses.

Attendance at all exams is mandatory.

IN ALL CASES OF MISSED COURSE MEETINGS, THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR COMMUNICATION WITH THE PROFESSOR, AND FOR ARRANGING TO MAKE UP MISSED WORK, RESTS SOLELY WITH THE STUDENT.

Whether an absence is excused or not is ALWAYS up to the discretion of the professor or the department. Unexcused absences can result in a low or failing participation grade. In the case of excessive absences, it is up to the professor or the department to decide if the student will receive an “F” for the course. An instructor may recommend that a student withdraw, if absences have made it impossible to continue in the course at a satisfactory level.

Students must be mindful of this policy when making their travel arrangements, and especially during the Drop/Add and Exam Periods.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY STATEMENT: As an Anglophone university, The American University of Paris is strongly committed to effective English language mastery at the graduate level. Most courses require scholarly research and formal written and oral presentations in English, and AUP students are expected to strive to achieve excellence in these domains as part of their course work. To that end, professors include English proficiency among the criteria in student evaluation, often referring students to the university Writing Lab where they may obtain help on specific academic assignments. Proficiency in English is monitored at various points throughout the student's academic career, most notably during the admissions and advising processes, while the student is completing general education requirements, and during the accomplishment of degree program courses and
